Riviera Brand Guidelines

Purpose and Principles

This document governs the visual and verbal identity of Riviera — a luxury aesthetics, beauty, and wellness clinic. Every application of the brand, from a business card to a treatment room wall, should feel like the same unmistakable experience: the quiet confidence of coastal luxury fused with the precision of medical expertise.

Core principle: Restraint signals luxury. Every element — color, type, image, word — earns its place.

Brand Story & Positioning

Brand Narrative

Riviera was born from a single conviction: that clinical excellence and sensual pleasure are not opposites, but partners. The name evokes the French Riviera — a stretch of coastline where light falls differently, where beauty feels effortless because the foundations are flawless. Riviera the clinic operates in that same spirit. Treatments are rooted in rigorous medical science, yet the experience feels like retreat. The result is not transformation for its own sake, but a quiet, luminous version of the self that was already there.

Mission Statement

To deliver aesthetic and wellness treatments of uncompromising clinical integrity, experienced through the ease, warmth, and discretion of a private coastal sanctuary.

Positioning

Riviera occupies the space between medical clinic and luxury spa. Competitors in the medical aesthetics space often feel cold; competitors in the wellness space often feel unserious. Riviera is both warm and exacting — a positioning defined by its coastal-luxury origin story and its insistence on evidence-based practice.

Target Audience

Segment	Profile
Primary	High-income women and men, ages 30–60, who value discretion, quality, and outcomes over volume or trendiness. They are executives, entrepreneurs, and established professionals. They have outgrown "pampering" language and expect medical credibility delivered with personal care.
Secondary	Partners and gift-givers seeking premium wellness experiences for the primary audience.

Psychographic notes:

- They research before they commit; trust is earned through expertise, not asserted through hype

- They research before they commit; trust is earned through expertise, not asserted through hype.
- They notice details: the weight of a business card, the temperature of a room, the exactness of an appointment time.
- They respond to "invitation" more than "promotion."

Logo Usage

Primary Logo

The Riviera primary logo consists of a refined wordmark — RIVIERA — paired with an abstract wave/coastal symbol.

- Wordmark: Custom-drawn letterforms or tightly tracked uppercase serif/sans-serif hybrid. The letterforms carry subtle stroke contrast: thin horizontals, slightly thicker verticals, evoking classic Riviera signage without nostalgia.
- Symbol: An abstract, flowing wave or coastal horizon mark. It suggests water, light, and horizon without literal illustration. The mark is never used to depict a specific beach, sunset, or coastline.
- Lockup: Symbol positioned to the left of the wordmark at a fixed proportion. The relationship is calibrated so the symbol reads as an elegant prefix, not a separate icon.

Clear Space

The logo must always be surrounded by a minimum clear space equal to the cap height of the letter "R" in "RIVIERA" on all four sides. No text, imagery, or graphic elements may intrude on this zone.

Minimum Size

- Print: 25 mm wide
- Digital: 100 px wide

Below these sizes, the symbol detail may degrade or the wordmark letter-spacing may compress illegibly.

Incorrect Usage — What NOT to Do

Avoid	Reason
Stretching, condensing, or rotating the logo	Destroys the intentional proportions and elegance
Changing the logo color to unapproved hues	Breaks color-system discipline and weakens recognition
Applying drop shadows, outlines, or 3D effects	Introduces cheapness; contradicts the clean, precise aesthetic
Placing the logo on busy or low-contrast backgrounds	Reduces legibility and perceived quality
Separating the symbol and wordmark without the approved lockup	Fragments brand identity
Adding unofficial taglines, graphics, or "badges" to the logo	Dilutes the mark and signals lack of control

Color Palette

Color Palette

Riviera's colors are drawn from the Mediterranean coast at dusk: deep water, warm light, pearlescent sky, and the living tone of skin.

Primary: Deep Teal / Petrol

The anchor color. Used for trust, authority, and medical credibility.

Format	Value
Hex	`#1B4D5C`
RGB	`27, 77, 92`
CMYK	`84, 43, 30, 14`

Usage: Primary headings, key UI elements, clinic signage backgrounds, medical document headers.

Secondary: Champagne Gold

The luxury signal. Used sparingly to elevate and warm.

Format	Value
Hex	`#C9A961`
RGB	`201, 169, 97`
CMYK	`20, 30, 65, 5`

Usage: Accents on print materials, thin rules and borders, foil stamping on business cards and packaging, subtle highlights in digital interfaces.

Neutral: Pearl White

The breathing space. Prevents heaviness and supports cleanliness.

Format	Value
Hex	`#F7F5F0`
RGB	`247, 245, 240`
CMYK	`3, 2, 5, 0`

Usage: Primary background color for print and digital, clinic wall color, stationery stock, negative space in layouts.

Accent: Rose Nude

The human touch. Evokes skin, warmth, and intimacy without clinical sterility.

Format	Value
Hex	`#D4A5A5`
RGB	`212, 165, 165`

CMYK	`12, 35, 22, 0`

Usage: Treatment category highlights, call-to-action buttons (digital), subtle photographic tinting, interior accent textiles.

Color Application Rules

- 60-30-10 ratio as default: Pearl White (60%), Deep Teal (30%), Champagne Gold + Rose Nude (10%).
- Never place Champagne Gold text on Pearl White — contrast is insufficient. Use Deep Teal for body text on Pearl White.
- Deep Teal backgrounds may use Pearl White or Champagne Gold text only.

Typography

Typography at Riviera communicates elegance through contrast: classical forms for authority, clean forms for accessibility.

Primary Typeface: Cormorant Garamond

An elegant high-contrast serif with classical proportions and a contemporary lightness.

Role	Weight	Size	Usage
H1	Light (300)	48–72 pt / 48–72 px	Page titles, campaign headlines, hero statements
H2	Regular (400)	32–40 pt / 32–40 px	Section headings, treatment category titles
H3	Regular (400)	24 pt / 24 px	Sub-sections, card titles

Fallback stack: `Cormorant Garamond, "Playfair Display", Georgia, serif`

Secondary Typeface: Montserrat Light

A geometric sans-serif that provides clarity and modern neutrality without competing with the serif's character.

Role	Weight	Size	Usage
Body	Light (300)	11–14 pt / 14–16 px	Paragraphs, descriptions, long-form content
Caption	Light (300)	9–10 pt / 12 px	Image captions, legal text, footnotes
Labels / UI	Regular (400)	10–12 pt / 12–14 px	Buttons, navigation, forms

Fallback stack: `Montserrat Light, "Lato Light", "Helvetica Neue", Arial, sans-serif`

Typographic Hierarchy Rules

- Headings are set in sentence case, not all caps — all caps feel institutional rather than inviting.
- Body text line height: 1.6–1.8 for comfortable reading.
- Maximum line length: 75 characters for body text; shorter (45–60) for premium editorial layouts.
- Do not use more than two weights of either typeface in a single layout.

Photography & Imagery Style

Riviera's imagery must feel like memory, not marketing. The viewer should sense the warmth of late-afternoon Mediterranean light, not the sterility of a studio.

Principles

Principle	Execution
Soft, natural light	Prefer window light, overcast daylight, or carefully diffused artificial sources. Avoid hard flashes, direct noon sun, or clinical overhead lighting.
Mediterranean-inspired tones	Warm shadows, blue-greens in background water or foliage, sun-bleached neutrals. Color grade toward warmth without overcooking.
Clean, airy compositions	Generous negative space. Subject placed with intention, never crowded. Backgrounds simplified — a wall, a horizon, a blur of vegetation.
Natural beauty over artificial perfection	Skin may have texture. Expressions may be neutral or quietly pleased, not performatively ecstatic. Avoid over-retouching that creates plastic uniformity.

Subject Matter

- Clinic photography: Treatment rooms with soft light, clean surfaces, botanical details, hands at work (not faces distorted by procedure).
- Lifestyle photography: Clients in relaxed, private moments — reading, sipping tea, looking out a window. Never clinical gowns or exposed medical equipment.
- Product photography: Minimal props, natural materials (linen, ceramic, stone), soft side-lighting.

Prohibited Imagery

- Stock-photo "beauty clinic" tropes: forced smiles, exaggerated before/after expressions, clinical coldness.
- Over-saturated or HDR-processed images.
- Busy backgrounds that compete with the subject.

Tone of Voice

Riviera speaks as a trusted expert who is also a thoughtful host. Every word should make the reader feel invited, informed, and respected.

Voice Attributes

Attribute	Definition	Example
Warm yet professional	Medical credibility without clinical coldness.	"Your consultation is designed to understand your goals and your skin — in that order."
Confident, never arrogant	Authority is demonstrated, not declared.	"Our practitioners are trained in advanced techniques. We will explain what we recommend, and why."
Inviting and reassuring	The reader should feel welcomed, not sold to.	"When you are ready, we are here."
Discreet	Privacy is implied, not performed.	Avoid explicit "your secret is safe with us" language; instead, use understated service descriptions.

Language Considerations for Portuguese-Speaking Markets

- Formality: Use formal address (`você` , not `tu`) in all client-facing materials. The `você` form conveys respect and professionalism appropriate to the luxury-medical positioning.
- Tone adaptation: Portuguese allows for warmth through sentence rhythm and connector words (`então` , `assim` , `pois`). Use these to soften transitions without becoming casual.
- Terminology: Prefer internationally recognized aesthetic terms (`preenchimento` , `toxina botulínica` , `laser`) over excessive anglicisms. Where English terms are standard in the industry, use them with brief explanation on first mention.
- Cultural resonance: The French Riviera reference translates naturally; the Mediterranean coast is a shared reference point for Brazilian and Portuguese audiences. Lean into light, sea, and natural elegance as universal symbols.

Words to Prefer and Avoid

Prefer	Avoid
Treatment, procedure, experience	Service, package, deal
Practitioner, specialist	Operator, technician
Results, outcomes	Miracles, transformations
Invitation, appointment	Booking, slot
Discretion, privacy	Secrecy, hiding

Applications

Business Cards

Business Card

- Stock: 600 gsm cotton or soft-touch matte board in Pearl White.
- Print: Deep Teal letterpress or foil for the logo; Montserrat Light for contact details.
- Accent: Champagne Gold foil edge or a thin gold rule on the reverse side.
- Dimensions: Standard 85 × 55 mm; consider a subtle rounded corner (2 mm radius) for tactile distinction.
- Layout: Logo centered or top-left; contact details restrained — name, title, phone, email, address. No social media icons. No QR codes.

Clinic Interior Signage

- Material: Brushed brass or champagne-gold metal for dimensional letters; matte acrylic for wayfinding.
- Typography: Cormorant Garamond for room names ("Consulta," "Tratamento"); Montserrat Light for directional signs.
- Color: Deep Teal backing panels or painted walls behind gold lettering. Pearl White as the dominant wall color.
- Lighting: Indirect, warm LED (2700K) grazing light on signage. Never fluorescent or exposed bulb.
- Wayfinding: Restrained and minimal. Signs appear when needed, disappear when not. No institutional "You Are Here" maps.

Social Media Presence

- Feed aesthetic: Consistent warm-neutral palette. Every post should feel like it belongs to the same visual world.
- Content mix: 40% treatment/process storytelling (respectful, non-graphic), 30% lifestyle and clinic atmosphere, 20% educational (practitioner voice, myth-busting), 10% client testimony (with explicit consent, anonymized or first-name-only).
- Typography on graphics: Cormorant Garamond for quotes and headlines; Montserrat Light for captions.
- Stories / Reels: Soft transitions, natural sound or quiet music, no aggressive trending audio. Prioritize calm over energy.
- Language: Portuguese for all organic content; English permissible in Stories if targeting an international client segment.

Packaging for Products

- Primary packaging: Frosted glass or heavyweight white ceramic. Deep Teal label with gold foil logo. Minimal text — product name, volume, key active ingredient.
- Secondary packaging (box): Pearl White rigid box with soft-touch laminate. Interior lined in Pearl White or pale grey tissue. Champagne gold foil logo on lid.
- Typography: Cormorant Garamond for product names; Montserrat Light for ingredients and usage instructions.
- Sustainability note: Where possible, specify refillable containers and recyclable outer packaging. Discretion extends to environmental responsibility — clients of this caliber expect it.
